Council Dumps Meters

On their last meeting of 1959 Wednesday night the Carmel City Council housecleaned the agenda in preparation for the new year.

Items which have been carried over from month to month were tabled (parliamentary parlance for killed.)

"Chain Stores, restraint or elimination; special committee (Norberg) to consider ways and means," on the agenda every meeting since August, 1958, got the ax in spite of Gunnar Norberg's protests, along with another Norberg project: "Annual Street Parking Licenses, proposal to require; Norberg studies proposal to create licenses to be required for parking on city streets." This has been around since July of this year. Each meeting Norberg would say that the committee wasn't ready with a report, yet, but . . . and the other council members would slump down in their chairs while Norberg expatiated yet again on Carmel's uniqueness and how when the committee works out the details, these proposed regulations would preserve same.

Allen Knight made the motion to table these items "until a complete report is ready, and delivered in writing to the city council."

Over Norberg's protests he said: "You can put them back on the agenda when you have something to report."

The council voted yes enthusiastically, though not unanimously. There was Norberg's disgruntled No.

The council was unanimous on tabling the biggest back-fire they've had to date: "Installation of Parking Meters, Committee (Buffington and Knight) to enquire and recommend on program of installation and allocation of reve-

Monterey College To Give Christmas Concert Here Wed.

The public is invited to the tenth annual Monterey Peninsula College Christmas concert on Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Church of the Wayfarer. The choir of 45 voices, directed by Dr. Harvey Marshall, assisted by Miss Angie Machado will sing Benjamin Britten's contemporary Te Deum chorale, also Mozart and Willis L. James selections and two choruses from Handel's Messiah.

Instrumental music includes an organ prelude by Buxtehude played by Ernest Tweedy and Hindemith music by the seven members of the MPC brass ensemble.

Irene Fernandez of Carmel is the soprano soloist; Donna Keeling, contralto; Bill Savage and Ed Dayton, baritone soloists. The audience will be asked to sing carols with the choir.

Guest organist will be C. V. Iverson. Miss Machado will play piano accompaniments. Speech students under the direction of Max Tadlock, head of the MPC speech department, will correlate all parts of the program with commentaries.

Jerzy Solak Flies Here From Baffin Island To Defrost On The Beach

Last week, within hours, Jerzy Solak flew from 18 below zero weather and 20 feet of snow on Baffin Island, 900 miles from the North Pole, to sun-drenched Carmel. "I've been swimming in the ocean and sunning on the beach every day since," he says.

Mr. Solak, a structural and civil engineer, spent the summer months above the Arctic Circle on Baffin Island installing Eastern Extension of the Distant Early Warning Line (Dewline) radar equipment for the Army and Air Force as an associate of Metcalf and Eddy, architect-engineering firm of Boston, Massachusetts.

"When I left Baffin Island the sun rose at 11:00 in the morning and set three hours later," he reports. During the four summer months he worked in almost continual daylight. From now until April, "Everything sleeps in the Arctic," he adds.

Dewline, the radar plane and attack warning system devised to protect the continental United States is planned to extend from Baffin Island to Greenland and Iceland. Work in the Arctic is, of necessity, seasonal. Mr. Solak plans to remain here at least until next summer. His wife, Joan, and seven-year-old daughter, Cri-Cri, have been Carmel Point residents during the four months Mr. Solak was on Baffin Island. "We hope to make Carmel our permanent home," Jerzy Solak says.

Two years ago he worked on the installation of an air base in Greenland. Where he will be next summer he is not sure. At present, after "plenty of snow, ice and rocks" on Baffin Island he is content to relax on Carmel Beach.

Council Completes Tree Tour Without Lighting A Lantern

Acutely conscious that night must fall, and does so early in December, the city council zipped through its 11-item tree tour agenda Tuesday afternoon and could still see the last pine on the list.

To add to the difficulties, the tour included items on both north and south city limits, and another within a block of the east boundary.

City Clerk Larry Rose's little Rover, carrying "the press," skittered along behind James Buffington's station wagon which was loaded with city councilmen and Street Superintendent Bill Askew.

The councilmen looked over the situation at First Avenue and Lincoln Streets, north city limits, where the P. G. and E. wants to install a pole, and said yes.

Let the street department dump some gravel, they decided after contemplating the exposed tree roots in the walkway in front of Rose L. Johnson's house at Casanova and Palou.

They gave permission to T. S. Bell to thin the eucalyptus at Carmelo and Fourth and to Mrs. M. B. Johnson to pave a driveway at Carmelo south of Ocean Avenue.

Just when it appeared that they were saying yes to save time, they disembarked at San Antonio and Second, looked at the handsome cypress that J. T. Ransdall wishes to remove to facilitate access to a car port, and showed they could say no also with dispatch.

Arriving at south city limits,

Goldes Plans Oxford Type University

An Oxford-plan university, specializing in humanities and social sciences and dedicated to a tradition of conscientious liberalism, will open April 4 on the Monterey Peninsula, according to Mark Goldes, Carmel Highlands.

To be known as Emerson College, it was incorporated as a non-profit organization this week with trustees: The Reverend Karel Vit, Monterey Peninsula Unitarian Church, Saul Weingarten, attorney, Margaret Ryan, retired educator, Dr. Ed. Stewart, formerly of Lehigh University, now a research psychologist with the Human Research Organization at the Presidio and Mark Goldes.

Goldes, who teaches philosophy at Monterey Peninsula College, says Emerson College will be based on "an organic rather than a mechanical structure" and will have as its overriding aim "concentration on problems of world peace."

Focal point of the curriculum will be a group, he says, of what might be labelled the "great questions.'" Such as: What is man? How can he survive? What is his relation to the universe? What is understanding? What is the basis of political obligation? What is virtue? What is beauty? What is progress?

Organization will be based on semi-autonomous residential units of up to 24 students and three full-time tutors per unit.

Eventually, some 15 such units would form a college. Colleges in the same general geographic area would be federated into an Oxford-type university, to avoid duplication of facilities.

Tuition would be $300 or more per quarter, with living expenses around $200, Goldes says.

Expensive? "You have to decide where value lies, Look what we spend for cigarets in this country. For armaments. For one squadron of ICBM's we could pay for 10 or 15 universities."

Goldes visualizes several eventualities for Emerson College. World-wide expansion and linkage with similar schools in many parts of the globe is a real possibility he feels.

Goldes will depend largely on private support in the beginning for his venture. "We should welcome donations of property," he said. "Ideally, we first require a house to accommodate 15 to 20 students, or undeveloped real estate (40 to 45 acres) on which students can build.

Art Board Seeks Petri For Carmel Resident Artist

Arts commissioners yesterday afternoon sent a report to the city council recommending that an artist-in-residence program be established in Carmel, the program to be started and administered by the arts commission; and that the first artist invited to Carmel under this program be Egon Petri, internationally known Dutch-American pianist who was the soloist Tuesday evening with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

The artist-in-residence program will be financed by private subscription, not city funds, the report stated. Suggested subscriptions were $10.00 - $25.00 or more. Larger sums, contributed by wealthy donors, will also be invited. A business manager will be hired to take care of fund raising, housing and other details, the report advocated.

Mr. Petri, during his six-months residence, will be asked to give one concert per month (free of charge to subscribers and donors but open to other persons upon purchase of a ticket.)

The commission report suggested that these concerts might be the entire cycle of Beethoven Sonatas which Mr. Petri played in San Francisco last season.

In addition to the concerts, subscribers to the artist-in-residence program may attend a few concert practice rehearsals to hear how Mr. Petri prepares a concert and any comments he may wish to make.

Several music workshops about composers or musical subjects will be instituted under the program and will be open to all subscribers.

Any pianists in the area who subscribe to the program and are acceptable to Mr. Petri may have the opportunity to take lessons with him at a reduced cost, the difference between what the student pays and Mr. Petri's regular price to be paid to Mr. Petri from the artist-in-residence fund.

The program later can be developed to include artists-in-residence

Sunset Sets Date For Christmas Pageant, Dec. 17

Sunset School will present its annual Christmas Pageant in Sunset Auditorium Thursday night, December 17 at 8:00 o'clock. The public is invited. This is in keeping with an old tradition dating back to 1929.

The program this year is under the general direction of Sunset's music instructor, Jack Douglas, and will feature a fifty voice choir that will make its traditional entry to Adeste Fidelis. The choir, along with tableau scenes and narration, will present the traditions and customs of Christmas in many lands, including Mexico, Sweden and England.

Mr. Douglas will be aided in the production by Kenneth Wiese, in charge of scenery and sets, Joe Broadman, lighting and curtains; and Martin Marcus who is coaching the narrators and tableau participants.

Tableaux participants are: Manuel de Leon, Beverly Blout, Debby Cook, Tim Fry, Barbara Arns,

Council Appoints Frank Lloyd To Forest Commission

Frank Lloyd, appointed to the forest commission at last night's council meeting, remembers when there was little but forest in Carmel. He came here first 48 years ago when his father, the late Dr. F. E. Lloyd, a botanist, decided to spend a summer doing research at the Carnegie Coastal Laboratory then situated at the foot of Junipero Street.

Dr. Lloyd purchased land for a summer home in Carmel in 1911, and with his family returned yearly until 1915. From 1915 - 1920, Frank Lloyd lived continuously in Carmel with his mother and brother, David. During this time his father vacationed here from his duties as Macdonald professor of botany at McGill University in Montreal, Canada.

After 1920 Frank Lloyd was a summer visitor until 1933 when he returned to Carmel with his wife, Marjory, and daughter, Jennefer, for a year's vacation. In 1935 he brought his family, now increased by the birth of a son, Skipper, to make a permanent home here. His daughters Lucinda and Mardi were both born in Carmel.

Frank Lloyd received his elementary education in Miss Williams' School in the Eighty Acres, then attended Montreal High School before graduating from McGill University. For the next six years he was a sports writer for the Montreal Gazette.

After returning to Carmel he was on The Pine Cone editorial staff for three years, was sports editor of a Santa Cruz paper and news editor of a Watsonville paper. He also edited the Carmel Cymbal for a year. He has been a commercial fisherman, a house builder and at present is president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' local.

Robert Spencer New President Of Business Association

The Carmel Business Association members will install new officers at a meeting this evening in Highlands Inn. Robert Spencer will be president for the coming year; William Brady, vice president; Rollo Payne, secretary-treasurer. Outgoing president is James Rowe.

The Fort Ord Soldiers Chorus will present the evening's program. According to Mrs. Helen Burger, executive secretary, over 100 reservations have been made for the event which starts with a social period at 6:00 o'clock. Dinner is at 7:30.

PADRE HOOP SQUADS TRAVEL THIS WEEK END

On the road for the second week in a row, Coach Dan Yurkovich takes his Padre hoopsters to the cozy San Lorenzo High gym at Felton for a league tussle this Friday night. Coach Hadley Hicks' lightweight squad meets the Cougar Babes in a 7:00 o'clock preliminary game. On Saturday night, the lightweight and varsity teams will be joined by Coach Dan Lawitzke's junior-varsity crew for a trip to Palma High in Salinas where they will mix it up in a triple-header with the Chieftains. After being in competition a little too deep at the Gustine Tournament and at Monterey High School, the Carmel squads will be back in their own league at San Lorenzo. Carmel's lightweight crew tackled the powerful Monterey lightweights in their opening game last Friday night and were taught a good hoop lesson by the speedy Monterey quintet. With the opener out of the way, the Little Padres figure to improve and cash in on their game experience for a win at Felton. San Lorenzo's varsity has a small but good-shooting aggregation which gives away backboard strength for speed and accurate shooting. Valuable game experience picked up in the Gustine Tournament has smoothed out the Padre patterns and has taken a little of the "football" out of the aggressive Red & Gray defense.

For this weekend's action Russ Wise will lead a Padre starting unit of forwards Pat Boyle and Chris Wilkin, and guards Mike Draper and Fred Bucher. Pete DePetra, Frank Bucher, John Odello, Danny Moore, and Ted Leidig have the inside track as starters for the lightweights, while the junior-varsity will go with Jim Brown, Bob Little, Scott Forbes, Paul Rice, and Mike Dunham.

Carmel opens its home season next Wednesday evening when the powerful Gilroy Mustangs invade the Padre pavilion. On this date, the junior-varsity will play Robert Louis Stevenson varsity at 4:00 o'clock, the Gilroy and Carmel lightweights tangle at 5:30, and the varsity fray is set for 8:00 o'clock.

CARMEL CAGERS LOSE AT GUSTINE TOURNEY

Carmel High's varsity basketball squad found the going rather rough in the Gustine Invitational Tournament last weekend as the Padres bowed out in a hurry by dropping their first two games. In Thursday night's opener, Carmel was clipped by Hughson High, 45 to 39, and Friday's game found a hot Le Grand aggregation topping the Padres, 44 to 37. Lack of practice games before engaging in tournament play was a severe handicap to the Carmel lads who had to face teams which had the advantage of from three to five practice encounters under their belts. With five football players in the opening lineup, the Padres were at times guilty of mixing football tactics with the basketball maneuvers and lost four players via the five-foul route. In Thursday's game, big Chris Wilkin and Fred Bucher were whistled down for too many fouls while Friday's tilt saw Bucher again hit the penalty box along with little Mike Draper.

After being down 24-13 at halftime against Hughson, the scrappy Padre squad surged back in the second half to close the gap to 39-38 in the fourth period only to drop behind in the final minutes as the accurate Hughson gang pushed through all their free throws. Russ Wise, lanky pivotman, led the Carmel point-makers in this game, hitting for 15 points on four fieldgoals and seven free throws. Mike Draper, making his first start as a varsity player, pushed through four field goals and six free throws to take runner-up honors.

An exceptionally tall Le Grand squad outshot the Padres in Friday night's elimination game and the zone defense thrown up by the San Joaquin Valley boys stymied the cold-shooting Red & Gray unit. Russ Wise again topped the Carmel shooters with 14 markers but it was the spirited play of Mike Draper and Pat Boyle which kept the local preps in the game. The Padres were down 12-7 at the end of the first quarter, trailed 32-23 at halftime, trailed 29-39 at the end of the third period, and were finally beaten, 44 to 37. Along with Le Grand, Los Banos, and Gustine, the Padres were favored to win this year's Gustine Tourney but the underdog Patterson Tigers came up with three solid games to clip Newman, Gustine, and Los Banos to win the majority of the gold.

To California...

a glass of beer is many things

Like the Motion Picture Industry, the world of Television belongs in fabulous Hollywood. And so does the beverage of moderation—bright, golden beer.

Beer is most Californians' choice for truly light refreshment all year 'round—and more than that. To many of this state's farmers beer stands for a good livelihood. Last year alone, the Brewing Industry purchased close to 100% of California-produced hops, more than one-third of the total barley crop. This is one more important reason why beer means better living for Californians.

Schlamme And White Give Good Account Of Folk Music At Sunset

By RAYLYN PENNEY

The folk song, which through the years has weathered equally well long intervals of popularity and apathy, fares best in the hands of professional performers. Josh White and Martha Schlamme offered proof of this at their Sunday night dual concert at Sunset Auditorium.

In a way, the multi-lingual Miss Schlamme "carried" the show, after White, who came on first, indicated to his audience by gesture and husky confidence that he was feeling less than fine and looking genuinely tired, did nothing to prolong his stay on the stage.

But while he was there, he and his talking guitar spoke with fine articulation in a language understandable to all.

He chose many numbers with which he has had recording success. He hit a high point with his stylized Foggy, Foggy Dew. He asked us to come back with him twice to St. James Infirmary, the last time to hear him belt out his favorite (and worthy) thesis that "a molecule is a molecule, son, and the damn thing has no race."

I've Got a Head Like a Rock and a Heart Like A Marble Stone came through in fine shape, and so did Bessie Smith's Nobody Knows You when You're Down and Out, Where Were You, Baby, When My Heart Went Out? There's a Man Goin' 'Round Takin' Names, Miss Otis Regrets, etc.

Miss Schlamme, billed as a lady who can sing in many languages, proved this in Italian, Russian, French, Hebrew, Yiddish, German, Spanish...

She is a folk singer and something more. Pantomine sets her stage. She becomes a bouncy small boy, a droshky driver, a philandering lass, even a whole regiment of marching troops by way of pantomime, then uses her adaptable soprano voice for extra conviction.

The Sunset audience appreciated her for linguistic skill and versatility in her repertoire of alien tongues, but for things like Langston Hughes' musically adapted Merry - Go - Round and There's a Hole in the Bucket, they loved her.

Angel Street Opens Friday At Circle

Angel Street, the next attraction at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre, brings Mason Wright back to the stage where he last performed Payment Deferred in 1955. Recently returned from a summer of professional stock in the East, actor - writer - painter--Colonel Wright has been cast as the Scotland Yard detective who unravels a skein of crime in Patrick Hamilton's thriller. Scheduled to open tomorrow evening, Angel Street will play through January 24, excepting Christmas week end.

Movie-goers will remember Ingrid Bergman as the distraught heroine of Gaslight, the film version of this suspense classic. Her role has been assigned in the Circle production to Rosamond Beck-Meyer, until last week the long-suffering Alison Porter of Look Back in Anger. Sandra Powers, featured in last summer's production of The Time of the Cuckoo, returns in the role of a seductive cockney maid.

Samuel Barbour

Samuel Barbour died on Sunday in a Salinas hospital following a long illness. He was a former vice president of Linen Thread Company of New York and a past director of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation of Boston, Massachusetts, and of the Industrial Bank of Commerce of New York.

Mr. Barbour was born in Paterson, New Jersey, on December 3, 1891. He lived in Bronxville, New York, and Piedmont before moving here two and a half years ago. His home was on Lazarro Drive.

For his work in developing fisheries, Mr. Barbour was awarded a certificate of merit by the State of California in 1945. He had been in charge of the Linen Thread Company offices in Toronto, Canada, and Boston, Massachusetts, during his years of association with this firm.

Mr. Barbour was a member of Zetland Lodge, A. & F. M., of Toronto, Canada, The Union League Club of New York, the Siwanoy Country Club of Bronxville and the U. S. Seniors Golf Association.

He is survived by his wife, Estella E. Barbour of Carmel; his mother, Mrs. W. A. Barbour, a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie B. Lowrey and a sister, Mrs. G. H. Lindberg, all of Piedmont; a stepson, Richard Saxton of Pebble Beach; and two granddaughters.

The Reverend Bernard F. Lovgren, rector of St. John's Episcopal Chapel, officiated at private funeral services for Mr. Barbour in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea on Monday afternoon.

Greatest Force Is Prayer, Says C. S. Lecturer

The greatest force in the world is scientific prayer, Herbert E. Rieke of Indianapolis declared in a lecture here December 7.

True peace and freedom will be secured for mankind through spiritual and moral rather than through atomic and material progress, Mr. Rieke stated.

Mr. Rieke spoke under the auspices of First Church of Christ Scientist, Carmel in The Church Edifice, Monte Verde Street. He was introduced by Arthur Porter, Second Reader.

To pray effectively, the lecturer said, it is important to gain a clear comprehension of God and of His perfect universe, including man.

Tracing the pattern of the Lord's Prayer, he pointed out that spiritual inspiration from this prayer has brought freedom and health to countless individuals throughout the years.

He told of a quick and permanent healing he experienced a few years ago through careful study of this prayer given to the world by Christ Jesus.

Denying that scientific prayer is a process of begging God for material blessings, he emphasized that prayer as understood in Christian Science is communion with God and His great fundamental facts of being.

"To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is," he declared, quoting from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science.

He told his audience that they "must truly understand, worship, and love God in order to have that dynamic sense of prayer that brings positive results."

Not time but spiritual understanding is required, he said, for scientific healing.

"If you are willing to accept the truth in all its implications, you can be healed instantaneously," he declared.

Pereiras Sell Restaurant To Plaridel Macahilig

Manuel and Alberta Pereira sold their restaurant on San Carlos Street this week after five years' operation. They plan a trip south after Christmas, "Maybe as far as Mexico," says Manuel, "we'll just go where we want when we want."

The restaurant will reopen early in the New Year under the ownership of Plaridel Macahilig, now the manager of Whitney's Restaurant.

Whitney's Restaurant will be closed for a year, although the bar will remain open. Mr. Macahilig is taking his charcoal broiler to his new location on San Carlos Street. It is a type of broiler not manufactured today and he is delighted that Willard Whitney presented the broiler to him for his new venture. He will call his restaurant Edel's, an adaptation of his name Plaridel.

Mr. and Mrs. Macahilig have a family of eight children, Rene, Elis, Tessie and Dits Requiro and Bert, Alice, Leo and Suzanne Macahilig.

The Pereiras will return to Carmel after their travels.

Manuel has lived here since 1912. He attended Sunset School then Monterey High School, in the days before Carmel had a high school. His father, also named Manuel Pereira, brought his family to Carmel from San Francisco forty-seven years ago.

Mr. Pereira was born in Spain and during the Spanish-American War served with the Spanish Navy until he was taken prisoner by the Americans.

The American government then found use for Mr. Pereira's knowledge of the Spanish language in the Philippine Islands until he left government employment in 1905. After coming to Carmel to live, Mr. Pereira was actively associated with the growth of the city through his employment with the Carmel Development Company, developers of Carmel, and the M. J. Murphy Company, pioneer Carmel building firm. His widow, Manuel's mother, died two years ago. Manuel grew up with Carmel. In addition to the restaurant he operated the produce department of the Carmel Drive-In Market for several years and also worked for Kip's Market. During this latter period he met Alberta, a New York girl, whom he married. Together they opened the restaurant they closed this week.

CAR HITS BOY AT STOPLIGHT

A car driven by Gilbert Maddux, 39, Carmel, southbound on Highway 1 at 5:25 o'clock last evening, jumped the north island at the intersection of the highway and Ocean Avenue in front of the high school, crossed Ocean and hit Jeff Strathmeyer, 15, Carmel Valley, who was standing in the south island pressing the stoplight button before crossing to the high school.

Both Maddux and the youth received minor injuries, neither was hospitalized. The accident is still under investigation by the California Highway Patrol.

Carmel Works Form Half Of Exhibition

Forty-nine works of art by Carmel Art Association members dominate the 104 selections from all parts of the State now on display in the Young Collections California 1959 show at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The second concert of the 14th Season's Series of the Monterey County Symphony Association Tuesday night found a practically sold-out house at Sunset Auditorium, where an enthusiastic assemblage greeted the orchestra and Earl Bernard Murray as he came to the podium to open the concert with the stirring chords of the Mozart Overture in Italian Style. The strong audience response to performance of this was evidence of the orchestra's gain since October's event.

In the Schubert Symphony in C minor, however, the full effect of the technical discipline under which the orchestra is now working was the more convincing for the clarity of themes, phrasing and modulation of colors from the instruments was not merely the result of Schubert's clever orchestration but a controlled painting of lights and shades. The inspired beauty of the melody of the Andante was delivered with a smoothness by the strings that put them on perhaps the highest level they have yet attained and indicated the sensitive feeling for it by their conductor; while the exuberance and strength of the Minuetto vivace and Finale completed an outstanding performance that stirred all to enthusiasm.

Murray's first performance of a composition by a local composer was awarded to Philippe Henri Buhler. His Symphonic Essay, already given in Redlands and San Francisco, was well received. Its opening bars are exceptionally impressive and its general construction includes considerable modern idiom and dissonance, quite rugged and strong, relieved at moments by interluding phrases such as that by the horn in the middle. It is a work of an intellectually grounded composer rather than of inspiration. Buhler received hearty applause which he acknowledged from the front. The event was encouraging to other local composers who need their works performed, and gratitude goes to Earl Murray for his timely move in this. Out of any locality today may come surprises in musical composition which has grown enormously in America in recent years where formerly there was little in the larger forms.

Apologies, please, for the slip in omitting tabulated movements of the Beethoven Concerto in typing my MS of program notes, but nothing mattered with Egon Petri at the piano since no one tried to applaud between movements! His rippling cascades of tones in the Beethoven first movement completely held the audience with their dazzling brilliance, and his performance was rapturously listened to throughout. The orchestra revelled in his authoritative lead which is easier to accompany than that of a less poised soloist, and they made a sympathetic success of the orchestral part under Murray. Petri's digital and dignified grasp of the flow and precipitation of power that Beethoven's music so logically expresses as a journey of life filled with diverse experiences was overwhelmingly victorious. The depth of tone and beauty of the Andante was a masterpiece of aesthetic pianism. Truly this scholarly musician's long experience, sincerity and nobility make him one of the finest in the musical world of today. We are grateful for his generous performance here.

Murray is modest, but the audience refused to let him go without acclaim for him, with Petri, for his thoroughly clever direction of one of the best concerts ever given by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

The third will be given March 8, including a solo singer.

Teresa Kennedy

Mrs. Teresa Wall Kennedy died on December 3 in a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Kennedy was born in San Francisco on March 31, 1870. She was the widow of William Joseph Kennedy, former secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, who died in 1924. Her home was in San Francisco until four years ago when she moved to Carmel.

Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Colin McCulloch of Carmel, Mrs. Richard Hutchinson of South Bend, Indiana, and Mrs. Fairfax M. Cone of Chicago; a sister, Mrs. Lucille Adams of British Columbia; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Rosary was recited on Friday evening in the Paul Funeral Chapel. Requiem Mass was celebrated on Saturday morning in Mission San Carlos Borromeo, Carmel. Burial followed in Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

Walter Logan

Walter Kane Logan died on Monday morning in a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 81 years old. For the past six years Mr. Logan had lived in Carmel with his daughter, Mrs. Patricia Harpel, Carpenter Street and Valley Way.

A retired civil engineer, Mr. Logan was born on September 10, 1878, in Wilmington, Delaware. He made his home in Lubbock, Texas, before moving here. His wife, Geraldine I. Logan died in 1950.

Besides his daughter, he is survived by a granddaughter, Nancy Cheryl Harpel of Carmel.

Private funeral services were held on Monday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. Inurnment will be in the family plot in Laurel Hill Cemetery in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Johanna Greene

Mrs. Johanna Augusta Greene died on Friday evening in her home at Ocean View Avenue and Scenic Drive on Carmel Point after a long period of failing health.

Mrs. Greene was born in Bismarck, North Dakota, on November 15, 1879. She came to live here 20 years ago.

Survivors are a daughter, Gladys Greene of Carmel, and a son, Donald Greene of Santa Cruz.

Private funeral services were held on Saturday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, followed by cremation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Man's God-given safety and protection will be stressed at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man" is the Golden Text from the King James Version of the Bible: "The Lord is good, a strong hold in the day of trouble; and he knoweth them that trust in him" (Nahum 1.7.)

Citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include (387:27): "The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering."

Contemporary Crafts Gallery Opens

The Contemporary Crafts Gallery has been opened by Helen and Fred Barson, newcomers to Carmel from Santa Barbara and La Jolla. They decided to make Carmel their permanent home and bought Gardner Dailey's house on Ocean Avenue.

Complete retirement proved impossible for the Barsons after the many busy years as heads of Maison de Linge, New York importing house with retail outlets on Madison Avenue, New York and Greenwich, Connecticut. Always interested in Arts and Crafts, they found that craftsmen were often faced with the problem of distribution of their work. So the idea was born to open a gallery where designer-craftsmen could display their creations and thus devote their full time to their crafts.

The gallery, while small has now on display the work of world-famous enamelists Ellamarie and Jackson Woolley, ceramics of Marg. Loring and Amy Donaldson all from San Diego. There are sculptures of James Hubbell of Rancho Santa Fe, ceramics of Roy Walker, famous Bay area teacher, textiles of Ida Dean Grae of Mill Valley and Carmel Craftsmen Liesel Wurzmann and Peter V. Teneau.

The gallery is located next to the Library, rear entrance on Sixth Avenue. It was formerly the real estate office of Michael Borodin.

FILMS AT TOWN HOUSE

On Wednesday afternoon Leslie C. Deck will show the following color films at the Carmel Foundation Town House: Japan in Summer, Japan in Winter, Gardens of Japan. The program begins at 3:00 o'clock and will be followed by tea.

CONSTELLATIONS OF THE ZODIAC - SAGITTARIUS, ARCHER

Sagittarius, the Archer, 23 November to 21 December, lies south of Altair and Vega, east of Antares in Scorpio, near the Scorpion's tail. In Sagittarius the Milky Way is at its brightest, an exciting sight through a telescope or glasses. Its central part is called the milk dipper. The general region is rich in star clusters and nebulae. Corona Australis lies just to the south.

Sagittarius was imagined by the ancients to be a Centaur, a fabulous creature, man from head to loins, carried by the body and legs of a horse. He thus had the speed and grace of that great friend of man, and, armed with bow and arrow, was most successful as a hunter. Chiron, wisest of the Centaurs, was instructed by Apollo and Diana, renowned for his skill in the chase, medicine, music and the art of prophecy. He taught men the art of archery, instructing many Greek heroes, including Achilles and Aesculapius. At Chiron's death, Jupiter placed him in the heavens as Sagittarius.

Some Hebrew authorities assign the Archer as the tribal symbol of Ephraim and Manasseh; others, as that of Dan, the hunter and warrior. It is a masculine sign and fortunate, ruled by Jupiter, lavish in gifts of justice, foresight and wisdom. It is the sign of the thighs, seat of motor activity.

Sagittarius represents man's threefold nature. He trains his animal body to serve his mind, emerging from it, shooting his arrow at the stars, seeking wisdom and direction from God. The last sign of Autumn, Sagittarius marks the death of the sun and the solar year on the year's shortest day, and the beginning of the new year in the sun's rebirth on Midwinter's Day, December 22. Stars: Nunki, Kaus Australis. Wisdom, "I SEE!"

—Howell Armor.

SUN STITCHED

The sunset pageant spreads across the sky along blue seas,
behind amethyst mountains,
around horizons of broad plains;
showing fantastic cloud shapes
silver tipped,
red rimmed,
gold backed,
and, at last,
glowing in a thin pink seam,
it stitches earth and sky together.

still undiscarded.

THE TORCH
Upstretched branches blaze, and the ginkgo torch kindles
the earth beneath it.

CLOTH OF GOLD
No cloth of gold glows more brightly than the carpet beneath the ginkgo.

THE SPENDTHRIFT
Now completely bare, the spendthrift ginkgo has flung all its gold away.

BOCA BARRANCA

(Costa Rica)

The nascent curve of silver moon
Barely parts, with burnished tip,
Fabrics of the paling sky,
And wakening stars prick through.

Paired cormorants take measured leave
Of sand bars dark with ebbing tide.
A frigate bird breaks spiral flight,
Dipping with the day's-end sun.

Where cloud puffs dapple
Mountains, violet blue,
An old volcano shadow-writes
Its Delphian prophecy.

The sun is down . . . and
From its all but vanished rim,
Light unfurls a fan of golden gauze
Briefly waving back the tropic night.

—ALICE M. REGAN

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

In the past few weeks this library has twice been closed in memory of the passing of a friend. In the tragic death of Elizabeth Niles, the library lost a friend and former administrator. In the death of Albert Lester, the library lost a friend and working partner. Mr. Lester was serving his third three-year term on the Board of Library Trustees and previous to that he was a member of the Book Committee. He did the library book-keeping, and cheerfully made out all the various financial reports, including the monthly statement to the Board. Wherever he went, he was an ambassador of library good will. The library has lost much through the passing of these two friends.

An autobiography by Bill Stern is called The Taste of Ashes. Mr. Stern was a drug addict for some time, and this is the story of his breaking the habit. He blames the administration of morphine after an accident for his drug addiction.

Max Miller has done 25 books since his famous first called I Cover the Waterfront. The latest is entitled, And Bring All Your Folks. The invitation is to see and inhabit the islands off the coast of California. He tells some lively stories about these islands, and living there might not be so bad.

The title of the next book will never send you, but if you open it and start to browse, you'll want to take it home with you because of the fascinating pictures. That was the reaction of this librarian, at least. The title is Everyday Life in Ancient Times and it was put out by the National Geographic Magazine. Open the book, and there you find the illustrations, 215 in all of which 120 are reproductions of paintings in color. Ancient times in full color—what more could you ask!

Part of the Civil War centennial is Pickett's Charge by George Stewart. This is one of the great encounters of the Battle of Gettysburg, the third day of the battle, and the book recounts with great detail the fifteen hours of action, the climax of the climax of the war.

We are putting out materials for Christmas in the customary spot on top of the card catalog and we have a few new things to be added to it. Several books on how-to-do-it at Christmas, decorations and such. Also Christmas With Ed Sullivan and the latest historical Christmas by Helen Topping Miller. Also a thing about Christmas in other lands. Speaking of the card catalog, have you noticed it is 45 more drawers big? The cards are all distributed among the drawers but not all the labels are on them. They should all be done by the time this is printed. Happy Christmas shopping!

Christmas In Carmel For Mayers

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mayer expect to arrive in Carmel at the latest on Christmas Eve. They are driving from the East, and in Chicago will be joined by Nancy Lofton, a sophomore at St. John's College in Annapolis, Maryland, who will spend the Christmas vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton.

The Mayers have been away from Carmel for over a year, traveling and living in Europe while Mr. Mayer worked on magazine articles and collected material for a forthcoming book. Mr. Mayer published They Thought They Were Free in 1955. In this book he explored the post-war thinking of ten Germans living in the village of Kronenburg.

Emile Norman Big Sur Preview

At the invitation of Emile Norman, 300 persons visited his Big Sur Studios on Sunday afternoon for a preview of the wood sculptures he has created for the formal opening of the Feingarten Galleries in New York City in February.

Mr. Norman, already internationally know for his endomosaic screens, is now creating in a new medium, wood inlays on a basic mold.

The sculptures shown by Mr. Norman on Sunday embraced many forms, including birds, fish, horses, a large female figure and abstract compositions. He first creates the basic mold form, then with the help of Brooks Clement, covers the form with thin wood inlays in a style similar to parquetry. The wood inlays have many shapes, such as rounds from coast canyon sycamore twigs, wedges of redwood burl from Palo Colorado Canyon, mahogany, birch, ebony and other wood squares and rectangles, all under a quarter of an inch in thickness. Hundreds of these thin wooden inlays, glued to the basic form in many variations of pattern, are used in each piece of Norman sculpture. The result is a new medium in the art.

The basic molds on which Emile Norman creates mood and color through use of his natural wood decoration are bold in design with flowing lines. Particularly impressive are the birds seemingly arrested in flight. Most of these are larger than life size.

A female form, also larger than life, dominated the show. The figure, with upraised arms, is placing a mantle over her head. The mantle is a thin piece of carved mahogany pierced randomly by small open circles and covered on each side with typical Norman rectangular decoration. The lines of this mantle ripple in a seeming breeze. The piece of wood used for the mantle is about a quarter of an inch in thickness.

Reactions of persons at the Sunday Norman show, expressed by a guest who misses no Peninsula openings, were, "This is the first preview I've been to where everyone is looking at the art."

Emile Norman's studio is below Sycamore Canyon several miles west of Highway 1, high above the redwood covered slopes of a canyon with the Pacific stretching for miles below. Throughout the studio where he and his assistant, Brooks Clement live are evidences of Mr. Norman's artistic talents and Mr. Clement's painstaking work. The 300 persons who drove over the miles of dusty dirt road were enchanted by the artist's home as well as his sculpture. And, says Emile Norman, "I'm sure Peninsula carwashes had unexpected business on Monday."

Emile Norman and Brooks Clement have adopted the name Clemile to express their joint work. On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. David Hagemeyer of Carmel helped them receive the 300 guests.

Mrs. Ferguson Home From Trip

"The way to really become acquainted with a grandson is to take him on a trip," says Mrs. Vada Ferguson, just home from traveling to Humboldt County accompanied by her grandson, Mark Chaffey of Menlo Park, five and a half years old.

Mrs. Ferguson and Mark drove up the Redwood Highway to Fortuna to visit Mrs. Ferguson's mother and Mark's great-grandmother, Mrs. Hugh Smith. Mark is the son of Mrs. Ferguson's daughter, Colette, and John Chaffey.

Lindsay-Oliver Pupils Gather

Last Wednesday evening a few of Miss Lindsay-Oliver's voice and piano pupils met in her studio at Lincoln and Seventh for practice in performing. Those who sang several numbers were Marjorie Pegram, Ora Fallis and Gilbert Schoenbrod. Piano pieces were played by Richard Turner, whose father, Dr. Turner, was present, also Mrs. Phil Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop and several others. Mrs. Jeanie Klenke served refreshments. Miss Lindsay-Oliver believes in the study of presenting to small groups as a preliminary to public performances. She extemporized on the piano at request, but her recently broken wrist does not yet allow her heavy playing, or normal practice.

Bad Weather Sent Sue Home

Susan McCloud came home to Carmel two weeks earlier than she had intended to return from a European trip because of bad weather after a wonderful summer season.

During her travels abroad Sue and a group of friends "drove wherever we wanted to go" and included Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia in their four-months itinerary. She will remain in Carmel through the Christmas season, then return to San Francisco to live. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCloud.

MPVS Gifts Total $6,575

Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services gave $6,575 to nine Peninsula organizations at their last meeting of the year on Friday.

Funds for these gifts came from proceeds of the MPVS Thrift Shop in Seaside operated by Mrs. Boyd Mewborn, Thrift Shop chairman, who received a standing ovation from the members. During her term of office Mrs. Mewborn has increased Thrift Shop monthly net profits from an average of $600 to over $1,000. November profits amounted to $1,066.75.

MPVS president, Mrs. John O. Simpson, designated Friday's meetin as Hazel Mewborn Day in appreciation of the Thrift Shop chairman's work and presented her with an orchid corsage on behalf of the membership.

Gifts distributed on Friday by MPVS are; $2,000 to the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scout Council's campsite fund; $2,000 to the Visiting Nurse Association; $1,000 to the Carmel Foundation; $1,000 to the Family Service Bureau; $500 to the USO; $200 to the Monterey County Science Fair; and $25 each to the Carmel Youth Center, Children's House in Carmel Valley and the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

The slate of officers for MPVS for 1960, presented by Mrs. August R. Nieto, was unanimously approved. Returned to office were Mrs. John O. Simpson, president; Mrs. E. J. Murray, vice-president; Miss Claire M. Kennedy; Mrs. Mildred Prosser Riker, corresponding secretary.

Newly elected to office are Mrs. King Benton, recording secretary; and the following chairmen of committees: Mrs. William H. Albee, Thrift Shop; Mrs. Archer Allen, finance.

The nominating committee elected for 1960 were Mrs. Arthur Dresser, Mrs. Roy W. Elliott, Mrs. W. Lincoln Noelle, and Mrs. Rollo H. Payne.

Mrs. Charles M. Jett, appointed by Mrs. Archer Allen, project chairman, will be chairman of the MPVS spring fund raising project which will be a festival.

New MPVS members are Miss Marian Eley and Mrs. H. Lee Weber. Mrs. Murle Ogden was welcomed as a returning member.

Mrs. John O. Simpson and past presidents will be honored on January 8 at a luncheon at the Mark Thomas Inn.

Opens San Francisco Gallery

Carmel artist Fredric Hobbs has opened a gallery in San Francisco at 2264 Union Street. Exhibition hours are 2:00 - 6:00 o'clock each afternoon, Tuesday through Saturday.

Mr. Hobbs recently returned from Europe where he spent a year painting and traveling, primarily in Spain and France. During this time he exhibited his work in galleries in Madrid and Spain. He is now showing his work in galleries and museums in Paris, New York, San Francisco and Carmel under the auspices of the Artists Guild of America, Inc. Last year he had a one-man exhibition at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

Coronado Bridge Winner

Ted Holt of Carmel with his partner, Jack Suess, of Oakland placed sixth in a field of 310 pairs last week in the thirty-third Fall National Championships of the American Contract Bridge League at the Hotel Coronado in Southern California. Holt and Suess also won a section top as well.

Helen Willats

Mrs. Helen R. Willats died on Monday evening in a local hospital after a long period of ill health. A former resident of San Francisco, she came here to live several months ago to be near relatives during her illness.

Mrs. Willats was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 9, 1896. During the past seven years Mrs. Willats was the manager of an apartment house in San Francisco.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Annabelle Beck, Mrs. John Linder and Mrs. Florence Lubin, all of Carmel.

Private funeral services were held on Tuesday in the Mission Mortuary. Inurnment followed in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Glenn Magee

Glenn Eugene Magee died on December 2 in a local hospital following a short illness. He had resided in Pebble Beach for the past ten years.

Mr. Magee was born on January 4, 1889, in Illinois. He was a World War I veteran. Before moving to the Peninsula in 1949 he lived in Orange Cove where he was a citrus rancher.

For many years, Mr. Magee was a member of the Fresno County Farm Bureau. He also belonged to the Orange Cove Chapter of the American Legion.

Mr. Magee is survived by his wife, Phyllis M. Magee of Pebble Beach; a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Humason of San Jose; two brothers, Lloyd Magee of Orange Cove and Lyle Magee of Alamoso, Colorado; three sisters, Mrs. Roy Cadwallader of Seattle, Washington, Mrs. Gretchen Blanpied of Denver, Colorado and Mrs. E. A. Chevalier of Santa Cruz; and three grandsons. A son, Glenn E. Magee, Jr., died in 1944 while serving with the Navy in San Diego.

Private funeral services, conducted by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer, were held on Saturday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. Burial was in the family plot in the Reedley Cemetery.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Magee are requested to do so in the form of donations to the Church of the Wayfarer Memorial Pipe Organ Fund, Box 2205, Carmel.

Art Board Chooses Petri For Carmel Resident Artist

in the fields of painting, sculpture, graphic arts, literature, dance and drama, the report stated. It also suggested that the length of residence may vary from year to year but should not be too short in order that supporters of the project and the townspeople may have sufficient time to get to know the artist-in-residence and his work. Also the artist should be here long enough to enjoy this area and be inspired to create in his medium.

Two types of programs can be embraced in the artist-in-residence project the commission report said. First, artists of eminent renown can be invited to live in Carmel; secondly, artists of unusual outstanding talent who may not have received public support or recognition can be sponsored and encouraged by receiving a Carmel artist-in-residence grant.

The report was prepared for the arts commission by a committee consisting of Gilbert Boyer, chairman, Mrs. Robert D. Aurner, Dr. Thomas N. Barrows and Mrs. Ruth Cooke.

A pledge of $10,000 before January and a definite promise to renovate the Forest Theater are necessary before the Arts Festival Coordinating Council can proceed with plans for a four-day festival in Carmel next October, Mrs. John Harrison told arts commissioners yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Harrison made this statement after reading the interim progress report of the coordinating council to commissioners on behalf of council president, Charles Thomas.

The report contained plans made so far by the five festival committees; art, music, drama, crafts and writers.

The money must be guaranteed in order to ensure $2,400 in prizes for art exhibitions of local and national artists' work; employ a drama director, $750; ballet expenses, $300-400; stage manager $250; festival manager $250; and music, writers and crafts expenses as yet unknown, the report stated. The Forest Theater must be renovated before any performances can be given at the city-owned property, planned as the festival focus.

The coordinating council report suggested $2.00 memberships, sold to Peninsula residents, as a means of financing the festival. In return donors will be permitted without further cost to attend criticisms, symposiums, lectures, etc., but no actual production of any of the arts. For productions or visits to galleries, etc., a ticket must be bought at the door or in advance. Season tickets will also be sold. Programs at $1.00 each will also bring in revenue.

Chairmen who assisted Mr. Thomas in preparing the report were Angie Machado, music; Peg Miner, drama; Dr. E. Leigh Mudge and Dr. Fred Farley, writers; Remo Scardigli, crafts; John Halloran and Harold Smithson, art.

Arts commissioner Vaughn Shoemaker moved for enthusiastic endorsement of the report by the commission. He also encouraged the coordinating council to begin soliciting $2 memberships immediately.

Commissioner Nelo Drizari suggested that council members seek financial assistance from Carmel merchants and also look for "angels."

Commission Chairman Gilbert Boyer appointed a committee of Mrs. Parker Hall (Maxine Albro), Geza St. Galy, Mrs. Ruth Cooke and Vaughn Shoemaker to work with Charles Thomas, festival president, and Mrs. John Harrison to prepare estimates of necessary Forest Theater renovation work after consulting with building inspector Floyd Adams.

Dolores and Santa Lucia, they approved Fred Lagomarsino's proposal that he pay for materials and the street department put in a larger storm drain.

Back across town at San Carlos and Third, the council gave Robert Nusbaum permission to open Third Avenue to gain access to two lots back in the woods.

The "low branch of an oak projecting into the sidewalk area" at Mission and Fourth turned out to be the entire tree. Rather than cut down the tree, the council made a typically Carmel decision. They instructed Street Superintendent Askew to bend the sidewalk out into the street.

At Third and Junipero, the councilmen agreed that ten small pines will have to be sacrificed when A. R. Vasconcellos cuts his property down to grade to build a motel.

In the afterglow they stood around Mrs. Mary F. Greenwood's pine at Monterey Street between First and Second, a tree they have already inspected twice this year, and gave her permission to remove it, at her expense.

Mrs. Greenwood protested. Mayor John Chitwood explained that the city pays for removing only dead and dangerous trees. This tree is neither dead nor dangerous.

"If you'd get here while it was still light, you could see it is dead," said Mrs. Greenwood.

"It's still light enough to see all those green needles on it," they pointed out and adjourned.

The eleventh item, Fire Chief Robert Smith's request for installation of fire hydrants at Lincoln and Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Streets, at Sixth and Santa Fe and at Santa Rita, was postponed to be acted upon at the Wednesday night city council meeting, since it required a resolution.

City Council Dumps Parking Meters For Now

nues." This has been on the agenda since September, and has been the occasion of an uproar of protest from the community. In spite of the tabling action, the council was forced to take note of still another petition in protest of the meters, and to hear Jeanie Morgan Klenke report that to date she had 1700 signatures of Carmel citizens who don't want parking meters.

The parking meters will sneak back on the agenda when things have cooled a little.

The street opening permits item, on since June 3 was also dropped, Allen Knight reporting that the Association of Mechanical Contractors (plumbers) hadn't come in with a recommendation.
